Experienced Florida 4-Her

About Me

I have been an active member of St Lucie County 4-H for the past 10 years. 4-H truly has helped shape me into who I am today. My main project area is small animal, focusing on my rabbit and my market laying hens. I also participate in a lot of leadership projects. Outside of 4-H, I am very involved at school by participating in sports and Student Council. When not participating in 4-H or catching up on homework, I can be found reading surfing, or socializing with friends.

4-H Skills Development

Communication

- As the President of County Council, I had to send out communications to my officer team.
- As President of my 4-H Club, I learned how to communicate my thoughts and ideas to others effectively
- At National 4-H Congress, I will use my communication skills by active listening and using respectful dialogue during group activities

Decision Making

- As my county's voting delegate for the Southeast District Board, I have learned how to make wise decisions that will benefit the district
- At Florida 4-H Legislature last year, I learned how to weigh people's perspectives on ethical issues and make decisions that will impact my community.
- I will use this skill at National 4-H Congress to make independent decisions such as which workshop to attend, how to manage my time, and how to engage with others

Planning/Organizing

- This year I organized and led a district wide workshop on rabbit showmanship
- By being a member of the iLead planning committee, I have learned how to plan a 3-day camp with a group of people
- At National 4-H Congress, I will use my skills to manage a busy schedule with workshops, service projects, and networking events

Problem Solving

- This year I helped fix things that went wrong with our County Council's annual post fair celebration to result in a better turnout
- On iLead committee this year we focused on solving some of the "problems" that could have made the camp less enjoyable for some people
- At National 4-H Congress, I will use this skill to resolve scheduling conflicts, address travel issues, and to navigate group dynamics during workshops.
