

Jerick King

Personal summary

Leadership, hard work, and tact, allow me to be good with children and get things done. Kindness and a desire to learn permits me to be an excellent candidate for completing multiple tasks and providing assistance at the same time. Excellent

Life skills.

- Leadership.

As a former second placing showmanship competitor, I was a leader for those who had not yet experienced showing in the ring. By questioning students and giving them little tips and reminders before the show I learned what it means to be a guide and or a director leading students in the proper direction.

- Hardworking.

4-H taught me to be hardworking and never give up. This is demonstrated through my active status in 4-H events like Executive Board, Avian Bowl, ect. When participating in 4-h Executive Board, some tasks seemed as if there were no answers for but 4-H led me to the realization that for everything there is a solution. You just need to work hard enough to find it.

- Kindness

Another attribute that I learned during my 4-H experience which contributes to my excellent communication skills. Kindness. Kindness is what allows me to get along with many different people who may not share the same values and help assist in resolving a conflict or disagreement effectively.
